FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Marketplace Books Succeeds with TradeSecrets Book Line

Marketplace Books, a world-renowned publisher of books and electronic products, continues to achieve great success with their TradeSecrets book line. First published in 1998, the Trade Secrets series has expanded to include over thirty titles with some of the most renowned authors in the trading industry today. Authors include: Louis B. Mendelsohn, Jay Kaoppel, John J. Murray, Ed Downs, Don Korn, Melvin Pasternak, Jack Gardner, and Louis S. Shuntich.

Marketplace Books intends to continue with the highly successful series. “The goal is to deliver proven trading techniques in a way that is practical and directly applicable. We seek out top traders and emerging new talent to always stay one step ahead in producing valuable financial content,” says John Probst, Senior Editor and Project Lead for the series.

One of the most popular titles, The Four Biggest Mistakes in Options Trading by Jay Kaoppel, hit the top twenty on Amazon.com and continues to be a top seller for Marketplace Books—proving the staying power of this series. In addition, four titles in the series have over 50,000 in print with many others approaching the same high mark. Upcoming subjects are sure to impress with hotly debated subjects such as Exchange-Traded Funds (ETFs) trading, top candlestick charting methods, and intermarket correlations research.

Based in Columbia, Maryland, Marketplace Books has been serving the needs of investors, financial advisors, and professional traders since 1995, often partnering with key industry players in the investment world.
